A small selection of what we offer,
shown by those who use our products

Dear reader,

At Örsjö Belysning we produce and sell lighting objects. We take great pride in the fact that everything we do is locally produced by craftsmen at our own factory in Småland, Sweden.

However, what makes us even more proud is seeing our lights being used, especially in the homes of our customers.

The following pages show a small collection of what we offer, through the lenses of the people that use our products. We hope you will get you a small hint of what we can offer to your home as well.

If you're interested to know more about our products, please don't hesitate to contact us.

Our company is built on simple values and strong beliefs. We produce quality products by hand in our local factory, with a sincere intention to leave the best possible mark on our planet.

Rooted in local craftsmanship, our products are created with meticulous eyes and mindful hands.

As result of our craft heritage we also encourage a design process based on materiality, which allows the raw materials we use to come into their own. We work with designers who adopt an applied arts approach to their work, resulting in a collection of expressive and unique lighting pieces. Together with celebrated Scandinavian designers such as Jonas Bohlin, Folkform and Matti Klenell, we have established Örsjö Belysning as one of Sweden's leading lighting brands, winning several awards and accolades along the way.

We've put down a lot of work towards sustainability in both the design and production. By for instance using sustainable materials and dimmensions, producing locally and construct for easy recycling were are able to limit the impact we make on the environment. In the end it's very easy, we just want the products to out-live ourselves and leave the best possible mark on peoples life.

From the hands of the Örsjö Family

All of our products are created in our own factory in Småland, by a small, close-knit team of highly skilled craftspeople.

Örsjö is more than a name, it's the place where it all started — a small village located just outside Nybro in the eastern parts of Småland, Sweden. For over 70 years, until this day, we've been convinced that local, small scaled production is the key to be able to make quality products on fair grounds. As a family owned business we're proud to be true to our roots and we still produce our lights in our own factory.

We like to claim that objects created by hand leaves a certain indescribable sense of human touch and warmth — a link between the user and the creator that often is lost in industrial production. For that reason the work of the hand is very important to us. We use local craftsmen for our entire product range — we weld, solder, bend, polish, paint, assemble, blow glass, carve leather and make paper in our factory or at our friends in the region.
