HygienicPro Channels & Gratings

2 million litres of craft beer brewed yearly requires a hygienic drainage solution

Case story: One of the largest independent breweries in Holland installs customized stainless steel HygienicPro channels and gratings

What the client needed

In Rotterdam's popular Makers District, the Stadshaven Brewery is located in a 100-year-old, fully restored fruit warehouse with an area of more than 5,000 m2. Every year, about 2 million litres of craft beer is brewed and bottled, canned or packed in kegs. Besides of brewing beer, the Stadshaven Brewery also offers guided tours, beer tastings and fantastic gastronomic experiences.

With such a setup a nice looking, hygienic drainage system with minimal maintenance was required for their facility.

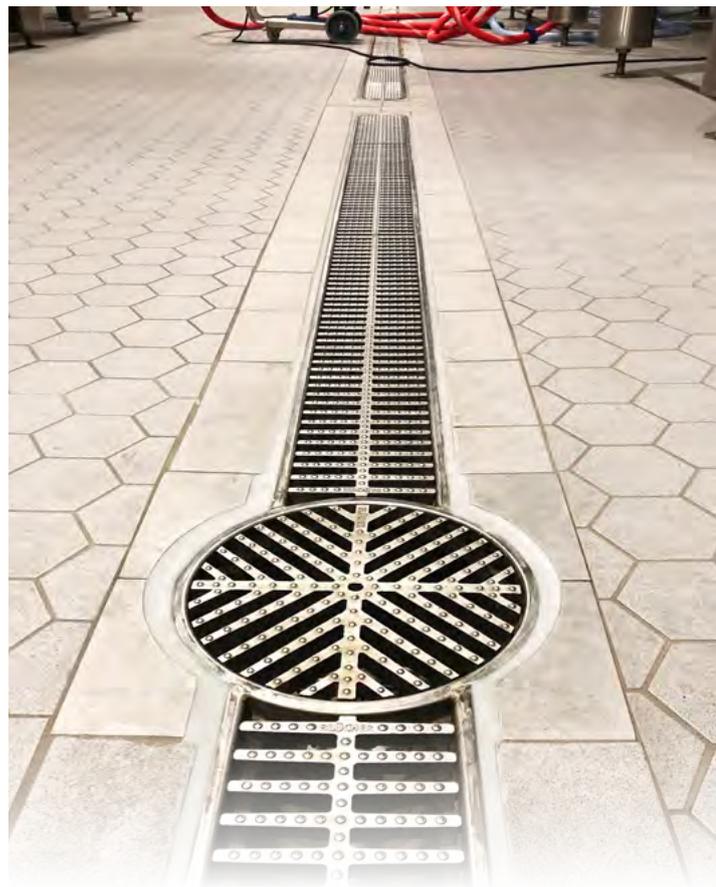

Solution

Having installed custom made BLÜCHER HygienicPro channel drainage products including its hygienic gratings, Stadshaven have got an effective drainage system that reduces cleaning time and give them a large amount of water savings.

Result (ROI)

The outcome is full functionality all over the building and as a bonus it is aesthetically pleasing. This solution suits the brewery operation, it suits the high loads, the thermal stress and the longevity of the floor covering.

If you are in the region, pay a visit, as Stadshaven offers a very pleasing atmosphere, people, food and almost forgot - delicious beers.
